Notes From Fr. Kerper

Thank you!

Over 120 parish members and guests had a great time on Saturday, October 15 after the 4:00 PM Mass. It was delightful to see such a variety of people, young and old, gathered together to enjoy time together and a good meal. Thanks to the creative, energetic, and enthusiastic team of parishioners who planned the event, did the cooking and cleaned up afterwards. St. Patrick's Parish is indeed blessed to have so many good people eager to serve the Lord's community. Thanks to all!

Adult Confirmation Class

Every year we discover adults of all ages who desire Confirmation. We hope to start off once again in early November. The class usually meets on Saturday afternoons. If you would like to be Confirmed or know someone else who would, please call Fr. Kerper at 603-882-2262.

Safety Reminders

During the past few weeks several people have left purses and wallets in the pews. Fortunately, they were quickly located and returned to their owners. Please do not leave valuables in the pews during Communion time.

Restroom Signs

Several weeks ago we installed new signs on the two small restrooms at the bottom of the choir loft stairway. Each is now designated simply as a "Restroom." This change was made because women and girls at Sunday Masses frequently had to wait in line even when the "men's" room was clearly unoccupied. Both rooms are identical and can be occupied by only one person at a time. Also, please remember that children should always be escorted to the restroom area when the need arises.

ST. PATRICK & HOLY CROSS CEMETERIES

This choral work is an extraordinarily beautiful setting of the Divine Liturgy of St. John Chrysostom, the liturgy of many of the Eastern Orthodox and Eastern Catholic Churches. The concert will be concluded with sung Compline for the Feast of St. Cecilia. The Cor Unum Chorale, a 50 member choir, including students from Thomas More College, as well as singers from throughout the region, will be performing this concert under the direction of Paul Jernberg (Composer-in-Residence at TMC and Music Director of St. Monica and St. Lucy Parishes in Methuen, MA.)

In lieu of tickets, a free will offering will be taken at the concert. All proceeds will go directly to benefit refugees and internally displaced people in the Middle East, through the Knights of Columbus Christian Refugee Relief Fund. We hope to see you at this concert which promises to be a glorious event as well as a wonderful opportunity to help our brothers and sisters in need.

Mass stipends and the dead

For roughly a thousand years Catholics have used November as a special time to pray for the dead. This noble custom emerged as a quasi-official extension of All Souls Day, which originated in 998 among the Benedictine monks of Cluny, the center of the great monastic reform movement. The monks realized that many of their brothers had not always lived good lives, and so they felt obligated to pray for their eventual salvation after death. Linked with this practice of praying for the dead is the frequently misunderstood custom of "having a Mass said" for deceased loved ones. Even today, some people call the rectory to "buy a Mass for Mom." How can people "buy" Masses? What's this all about?

The custom of offering a monetary "stipend" to a priest "for a Mass" gradually began when money-based economic systems replaced barter. In ancient times people provided their priests with the bread and wine actually used at a particular Mass. In exchange for this gift, the deceased loved one received a "special remembrance" at the Mass. As economies gradually became money-based, cash stipends replaced the actual bread and wine. The amount of the stipend was supposed to equal the cost of the priest's daily sustenance. That of course, has fallen by the wayside. The standard stipend is now $10.00. The daily sustenance, of course, is much higher than $10.00, an amount that has not risen in many years. Church law, by the way, strictly prohibits the priest from accepting more than one stipend per day regardless of how many Masses he celebrates. In our Diocese, the additional stipends support retired and sick priests.

What actually happens to the deceased person who is remembered at Mass? At most, the Church simply teaches that prayers and Masses offered on behalf of the dead somehow benefit them. Nothing more. Nothing less. However, St. Thomas Aquinas, who theorized about almost everything, proposed one possible explanation.

We find his beautiful theory in the Supplement to the Summa Theologiae (Question 71, Articles 9-10), a text actually written by Fr. Rainaldo da Piperno who reconstructed the notes of St. Thomas after he died in 1274. St. Thomas stressed that deep and permanent bonds of charity link the living and dead. Through these bonds, good deeds -- like prayers, almsgiving, and participation in the Eucharist -- become transferable among people. Because the Eucharist always reflects and intensifies the bonds of divine-human love, the Mass becomes a kind of "meeting point" between living and dead. This mysterious "contact" somehow benefits both parties: the one who arranged the Mass and the dead person. In fact, St. Thomas argued that the Mass actually helps the living person more than the dead because he or she has done a wonderful act of charity. Moreover, St. Thomas highly commended almsgiving to the poor on behalf of the dead as an especially efficacious practice. Sadly, many have forgotten this "good work" for the dead.

Moving beyond the somewhat arcane medieval theories, public Mass intentions at the very least resurrect the memory of the forgotten dead. "Announced Masses," as they are sometimes called, bring people together on anniversaries to pray and remember their deceased. In a world that so quickly forgets the dead, anything that preserves their memory is surely worth doing. We, of course, do it every day at the Eucharist. November, the month of the Holy Souls, is the perfect time to remember our deceased loved ones, especially our ancestors.

Fr. Michael Kerper
