PASTORAL NOTES

Saturday Vigil Mass

Beginning this Saturday, we will have a simplified 4:00 PM Mass. We will sing a processional and recessional hymn without a cantor, using only familiar traditional hymns. As during the summer, we will continue to recite the Kyrie, Gloria, and responsorial psalm. The organist will provide instrumental music during the offertory and communion times. Also, considering the reluctance of most people to bring forth the gifts, the server will now bring the hosts and wine to the altar from the credence table. I sense that most people who regularly come to the 4:00 prefer simplicity and familiarity, so I hope that these adaptations will be welcomed. For those who desire a richer and more musical form of the Mass, the 9:30 AM and 12:00 Noon will continue as in the past.

Security Volunteers

Recently we have had a few episodes involving disorderly people in our church. While we strive to welcome everyone, we also need to protect worshippers from potential problems. The Nashua police department has always responded promptly, compassionately, and discreetly. I have asked the department to provide a basic orientation session for volunteers charged with assisting us in "security matters." If you would like to help, please call 882.2262 or send an email to officespn@onecommail.com.

Begging in church

Our St. Vincent de Paul Society does an excellent job helping the poor and troubled who come to us for help. Now and then some people approach parishioners directly, either in the church or parking lot. Please consider directing them to the SVdP Society rather than giving them cash. While everyone is free to act according to their best judgment, direct cash assistance may not be the wisest choice. Thank you!

ST. PATRICK'S THRIFT STORE CLEANING HELP NEEDED!

The St. Patrick Thrift Store team is excited about starting a Thrift Store in the School. There is much to do to prepare for a grand opening, and we will start by cleaning the school's first floor and getting a collection bin in place. If you can help dust, sweep, move items, etc. please join us!

Cleaning dates and times are as follows:

Monday, Sept. 21st - 9:00 AM to 2:00 PM

Wednesday, Sept. 23rd - 9:00 AM to 2:00 PM

Friday, Sept. 25th - 9:00 AM to 2:00 PM

Donations will be requested once the collection bin is in place. The Thrift Store will sell clothing, books and small household items. We cannot accept upholstered items, sofas, or large items due to the stairs in the school and pest concerns. Display shelving, a cash register, computer and many other items will be needed before operations can begin. Requests for donations and drop-off times will be listed in future bulletins.

The Thrift Store team is all-volunteer and we will assess an opening date as cleaning, collections and display set-up progress.

The Thrift Store team will not meet again until after the cleaning dates. We will be brainstorming and discussing set-up and operations during the cleaning sessions, so if you are interested, please join us for an hour or two, or all 5 on a cleaning day!

Catholic “traditions” vs. Tradition

Catholicism has many traditional practices, celebrations, and so forth. While these traditions may foster genuine devotion, they may also conceal the decay of Christian faith even as the externals continue. Indeed, the Catholic traditions may co-exist with beliefs completely contrary to the faith.

Here’s an example. Two weeks ago, while wandering through East Cambridge, I saw several posters advertising the annual festival honoring Saints Cosmas and Damian. The poster displayed very traditional statues of the two Arab Christians who were beheaded around 303 A.D. in Syria. So far so good. But as my eyes moved down the poster, I spotted three strange things.

First, the group that organizes the event is headed by a local politician who sits in the Massachusetts State Senate. In 2014, he won the endorsement of NARAL/ProChoice and Planned Parenthood for his 100% support of legalized abortion.

Second, the corporate sponsors of the festival include Pfizer, which manufactures at least two drugs that induce abortions, as well as a pharmaceutical company that was sued by women employees who were encouraged to avoid pregnancy and/or have abortions.

Third, the festival includes a meatball eating contest and a cannoli eating contest. Yes, perhaps this is harmless fun, but is it not also gluttony and the glorification of excess?

These three aspects of the traditional festival stand in stark contrast with the lives and beliefs of Saints Cosmas and Damian. According to ancient tradition, these twin brothers were physicians known as the “moneyless ones” because they provided medical care free of charge. What a novel idea! These young Christian men devoted themselves to healing and protecting life, and now some of their political and corporate sponsors do the opposite.

This curious situation of saints being “honored” by people who act contrary to the saints’ example reminds us of a constant danger for Catholics: the gradual separation of traditions from their substance and original meaning. For sure, many people who celebrate the feast of Saints Cosmas and Damian do so in the proper spirit, but many have almost no knowledge about these saints and many would never imitate their generosity, poverty, and sobriety. As such, the festival, which once had an entirely spiritual purpose, may become an empty shell, now used by its political and corporate sponsors to affirm their support for the “Catholic community.”

We find a key lesson here: the survival of Catholic “traditions” is not the same as the survival of Catholic faith. Indeed, the “traditions” may continue – and even expand – without any faith whatsoever. After all, Catholicism is not a “traditional” religion and we are not “traditionalists.” Instead, we are believing people “of the Tradition” – traditio – which means the constant “handing on” of the Word of God and the Living Person of Christ. While “traditionalists” fall in love with the “things” of religion, Catholics go far beyond the “things” to the substance: the love and imitation of the Lord. That’s what Saints Cosmas and Damian did long ago. And “traditions” without genuine faith are really quite worthless.

Fr. Michael Kerper
