Poor Box money is used to assist the needy who approach our parish for meals, gas and groceries. Indirect assistance is provided through funds given to several local charities, including the Corpus Christi Food Pantry and the Nashua Soup Kitchen and Shelter. None of this money is used for parish expenses. Your continuing generosity allows our parish to fulfill the Lord's command to help "the least of my brothers and sisters."

THANK YOU!

Worldwide Marriage Encounter Weekends

The Responsorial Psalm today says, "Teach me your ways, O Lord!" Do we allow the Lord to teach us His ways so that we can love and honor our spouse more each day? Let the Lord strengthen, renew, and rekindle your marriage sacrament by attending a Worldwide Marriage Encounter Weekend on March 13 - 15, 2015 and May 19 - 21, 2015. For more information call Jim and Elaine Richard at 1-800-710-WWME or visit our webpage at www.wwme.org.

Fifth Annual Longest Married Couple Project Sponsored by Worldwide Marriage Encounter

The search is on. The Fifth Annual Longest Married Couple Project in the U.S. (includes couples within the U.S., as well as U.S. territories) has started. If you know a couple with a long marriage please nominate them for this honor. This annual search is sponsored by Worldwide Marriage Encounter. More information can be found at wwme.org.

In addition to honoring the longest married couple for the entire United States, recognition will also be given to a couple from each state and territory who has achieved that distinction. In the case of the United States couple, appropriate gifts will be presented to them at a ceremony to be held at their location during Valentine's week. The state winners will receive personal recognition and a special certificate of achievement during that same time frame from the Worldwide Marriage Encounter movement. For more information go to wwme.org

World Meeting of Families Pilgrimage and Papal Mass

The 8th World Meeting of Families will be held in Philadelphia, PA, from September 22 to 27, 2015. Pope Francis will celebrate a public Mass on Sunday, September 27. The Diocese of Manchester is sponsoring a pilgrimage to the World Meeting and Papal Mass. Families and those who minister to families can join others from around the country and the world to explore issues that affect family life. For information and pilgrimage details visit www.catholicnh.org/wmof.

Vestments and Superiority

Among Christians, the most ancient and elaborate vestments have survived within the Catholic and Orthodox Churches. However, many contemporary people, even some Catholics, dislike vestments, seeing them as a way to elevate clergymen over the baptized faithful. Indeed, some Protestant denominations adamantly refuse to allow vestments, except perhaps an academic robe. And many evangelical ministers wear standard business attire when preaching or conducting services.

Living as we do in an anti-hierarchical and democratic world, it is somewhat amazing that vestments have survived in the Catholic Church. Thorstein Veblen (1857-1929), a very quirky economist from Wisconsin, offered an explanation. According to Veblen, vestments actually mark the clergymen as lower -- not higher -- than the ordinary faithful.

In his classic work, The Theory of the Leisure Class (1899), Veblen wrote: "Priestly vestments show, in accentuated form, all the features that have been shown to be evidence of a servile state and vicarious life." Vestments, Veblen insisted, serve as uniforms, much like the garb of butlers and footmen employed by the wealthy. Employers, by mandating and providing the uniforms worn by their domestic servants, forcefully assert their superiority over the servants. And, considering that most vestments are owned by the parish not the priest, the richness, expense, and high quality of the vestments say much more about the "owners" than the "wearers," who, after all, simply "borrow" the sacred clothing.

Veblen's musings about vestments also touch upon the usually unacknowledged "love/hate relationship" between clergy and laity, especially within the more "mature" and "traditional" forms of Christianity, notably Catholicism, Anglicanism, and Lutheranism. These more "formal" Christians, according to Veblen, have great respect for the office of the priest/pastor, but not necessarily for the human beings who hold the office. The ancient vestments, then, separate -- and protect -- the clergy from the laity, much as the butler's uniform acts as a clear boundary between master and servant. Veblen, certainly not a believing Christian, saw the clergy as the hired servant/butler, not the other way around.

Vestments, of course, come and go. We must always remember that all the vestments in the Catholic wardrobe are stylized versions of common ancient Roman garments. As fashion changed, the Church just kept the old clothes around, probably without too much thought about why. In their original form, they symbolized nothing. Gradually, they acquired sacred meanings, none of which ever asserted superiority of the priest over the people. We see this, for example, in the long-standing practice of compelling the priest to conceal his stole -- the symbol of priestly authority -- while celebrating the Eucharistic Sacrifice. The priest wears the stole under his chasuble, the symbol of charity, thereby signifying the priority of love over authority.

Fr. Michael Kerper
