Indirect assistance is provided through funds given to several local charities, including the Corpus Christi Food Pantry and the Nashua Soup Kitchen and Shelter. None of this money is used for parish expenses. Your continuing generosity allows our parish to fulfill the Lord's command to help "the least of my brothers and sisters."

Understanding Catholicism

Ever wonder what the Church teaches about a specific topic, or why the teaching is what it is? The RCIA team is introducing a new discussion series that gives anyone interested in the Catholic Faith a place to ask and answer questions about the Church. Each meeting, on Sundays from 1:30-3:00 p.m. in the parish center, will focus on a different topic:

1/12 - Understanding Suffering

Please see the flyers in the back of the church for more details or email UC.st.patrick@gmail.com.

The Knights of Columbus Officers Meeting will be held in the Center on Tuesday, January 7th at 6:30 PM.

Sacrament of the Sick Don't Wait

Recently a few people sought the Sacrament of the Sick for people on the verge of death. Because of other urgent commitments and illness, no priests in the area were readily available.

If you know of people who are in declining health, please let us know. Without direct contact, we have no way of knowing where people are or what their spiritual needs are. If you have loved ones or friends in local nursing homes, please call Rosemary at 882-2262.

Also, please remember that the Sacrament of the Sick is not reserved for people facing imminent death. Advance notification will increase the chances of providing the Sacrament in a timely manner. Delay will likely result in disappointment and stress. Please know that our parish continues to offer the Sacrament every Friday after the 12:05 Mass.

The Magi as the “Face” of the Church of the Future

St. Matthew, alone among the four evangelists, reports how the magi traveled a vast distance to adore the Christ Child. Aside from noting that the magi “came from the East,” St. Matthew provides no additional details, not even the precise number of magi. Over the course of the centuries, however, various artists began to depict them as racially and culturally diverse. Today the standard Nativity scene usually includes one “wise man” who looks African, one who appears Asian, and one who seems European. This racial/ethnic/cultural multiplicity of the magi signified the universality of those who would eventually believe in Christ.

In times past, the magi – especially the African and Asian ones – seemed quite exotic to most Catholics in the United States. After all, who ever heard of African and Asian Catholics? Wasn’t the Catholic Church essentially European? Yes, once upon a time it was. But not now. And the customary depiction of the magi as two-thirds African/Asian was actually out prophetic.

During the past 50 or 60 years, the “face” of Catholicism has changed enormously, so much so that American Catholics of European origin – from Germany, Poland, Italy, Lithuania, Ireland, etc. – have become a very tiny part (only about 3%) of the universal church. What once seemed so predominant is now minuscule.

Professor Philip Jenkins, who teaches history at Baylor University, provided a stunning overview of these powerful trends in an article called “Believing in the Global South,” which appeared in the December 2006 issue of First Things.

Consider these numbers. In 1900, Africa had just 1.9 million Roman Catholics. By 2000, that number had risen to 130 million Roman Catholics, more than double the Catholic population in the United States. In the course of just 100 years, Africa went from being 10% Christian to 50% Christian, which, Jenkins contends, is the fastest and biggest shift of religious identity in human history. And consider this. Since 2000, the number of newly-baptized Catholics in the Philippines has usually exceeded the combined total of Italy, France, Spain, and Poland!

Jenkins offered some amazing statistical projections. By 2025, he predicted that 60% of Catholics will live in Africa and Latin America. By 2050, only about 15% of the total Catholic population will consist of non-Latino people of European origin. And already, the majority of young Catholics in the United States consists of Spanish-speakers. By 2050, Jenkins wrote, “European and Euro-American Catholics will be a small fragment of a church dominated by Filipinos, Mexicans, Brazilians, Nigerians, and Congolese.” Indeed, the face of the magi has become the face of the Catholic Church.

Jenkins also pointed to the reversal of the missionary movement. Whereas in the past, European and American Catholics went to foreign lands to evangelize the “heathens,” now enthusiastic Catholics from Africa, Asia, and Latin America are heading into the affluent North to rebuild the church. [The Mexican sisters and African priests in our area here are welcome evidence of this trend.] These new missionaries, Jenkins said, “are changing many familiar aspects of belief and practices and exporting cultural traits presently found only in Africa or Latin America.” As you gaze upon the faces of the magi this year, you will see not only the ancient past but also the rapidly emerging future. Happy Epiphany!
